The Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

MacARTHUR-KIRK DUEL

WASHINGTON.—In a highly secret session before the senate military affairs committee last Thursday, Gen. George Marshall, army chief of staff, refused to guess when the end of the war with Germany will come. According to all logic, he said, the German resistance should be at an end now, but there is no sign that the army is collapsing. The Gestapo still retains its hold of terror on Germany.

Marshall pointed out that German gasoline stocks are practically dried up, and that the Nazis do not have enough fuel to move their supplies, let alone their armored vehicles and artillery. On the other hand, he said, their supply problem is far simpler than ours because they are fighting at home. Their repair and replacement job for tanks and other vehicles is also comparatively simple. When Allied armor is knocked out, it means that it is lost if the damage is too much for the field repair bases, while a Nazi tank which has suffered far more serious damage can be taken right into a tank factory not so many miles from where it was hit. This is a tremendous advantage, he said.

The chief of staff also told the senators that it is a mistake to figure that the Japs will fold up quickly once Germany is out of the war. Although its losses have been heavy. Japan still has a formidable army and vast stores of supplies. He would not estimate the length of time needed to defeat the island empire. But he insisted it would be extremely tough going.

Marshall said nothing during this session about his plan to take over as supreme commander in the Pacific once Germany falls, but members of the committee now take that for granted.

Explanation?

General MacArthur's army friends in Washington have a unique explanation for his refusal to let Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk, surgeon general of the army, visit Manila on his recent inspection tour. They say privately that no suitable housing was available for General Kirk. One MacArthur supporter, who is familiar with the Kirk incident, added, "When you are a five-star general, you don't have to give an explanation for what you do."

Further details of General MacArthur's refusal to let General Kirk touch foot even on the Island of Luzon in order to inspect army hospitals there have now leaked out. Kirk, as head of the army medical corps, arrived in Leyte with a staff of medical experts ready to place them in strategic positions in Luzon where fighting was heavy at that time.

As a courtesy to MacArthur, Kirk radioed him from Leyte island that he was coming. He received in reply a message saying that his presence was not needed.

Scarcely believing his eyes, General Kirk gave MacArthur a chance to change his mind by sending another telegram which said in substance: "Don't understand your message. Do you mean by your telegram number so-and-so that my assistance is not welcome?"

General MacArthur's reply was brief and to the point. It read: "No, repeat no."

Kirk then got in his plane, boiling mad, and came home.

Note—The war department for some time has been split into the pro-MacArthur and the anti-MacArthur schools. Many of the general's own contemporaries don't like him, feel that he has never given sufficient credit to men who bore the brunt of the Pacific fighting such as General Krueger, Eichelberger, Kenney, Arnold and others. They also resent the fact that news dispatches from the Pacific must bear the dateline "General MacArthur's headquarters," and point out that in contrast Eisenhower requires no such date line and has given much credit to Generals Patton, Hodges, Simpson, Patch, and Devers, all of whom are well known to the public, whereas few know the names of the generals commanding MacArthur's armies.

Here is one story as to how American troops managed to capture the important Ludendorf bridge across the Rhine. A group of anti-Nazi students are reported to have been quietly organizing in the Rhine valley, and secretly joined Hitler's Elite guard, the "Schutz staffel" in 1912 where they have been boring from within ever since. It was this group that is reported to have tipped off the American command that the Remagen bridge would be intact.

EUROPEAN DEATH TOLL

One thing Joseph Stalin pointed out to Roosevelt and Churchill that greatly impressed them at Yalta was the terrific toll the Nazis had exacted from the people of Europe.

One-seventh of Poland's population has been destroyed by the Nazis, Stalin said a preliminary investigation disclosed.

Stalin also pointed out that Hitler had won a tremendous victory over the Allies by permanently frustrating the birth of some 10,000,000 in conquered countries.

Harold Shelley Awarded Star

Mrs. Jessie Shelley has a bronze star medal which her son, Harold, sent from over seas. The citation which accompanied the medal reads as follows:

Harold Shelley, 39002956, T/Sgt. 84th Bomb Sq. (L), 47th Bomb Gp. (L), AAF. For meritorious service as airplane mechanic and crew chief from Dec. 2, 1942 to Aug. 10, 1943 in Africa and Malta. T/Sgt. Shelley has distinguished himself through his consistently superior workmanship and his outstanding ability to keep combat aircraft under his care on flying status under extremely adverse conditions and during periods of intense operational activity. At Malta, his unceasing skillful work and direct supervision of maintenance with shortages of equipment and help, for seventeen days and nights during the initial phases of fighting in Sicily was a contributing factor of great value to his organization's ability to complete 190 bombing sorties in this brief period. His constant devotion to duty, and exceptionally skillful performance of aircraft maintenance under unfavorable field conditions reflects credit on himself and the Armed Forces of the United States.

Awarded per General Order No. 42, Hq XII TAC, dated Sept. 12, 1944.

Ray Spafford Resigns As Local Theater Manager

Ray Spafford, local Campbell theater manager for the past 15 months, has just resigned to devote more time to his photographic business in which he is in partnership with Jay Park of Campbell.

Spafford came to Campbell from Wisconsin. After spending a year and a half in Naval construction in the South Pacific, he was shipped home to Wisconsin but couldn't stand the cold weather on account of his injuries so decided to make Campbell his place of business.

Mr. Brown of Los Gatos will manage the local theater until a new manager is found.

Local Man's Outfit Kills 1400 Germans

With the Fifth Army, Italy —Pvt. Bill Wrightman, son of Mrs. Augusta M. Dixon, tank driver, is a member of the 752nd Tank Battalion, which is credited with killing 1400 Germans, capturing 484 others, knocking out 11 tanks and disabling three others and destroying 21 pillboxes, 41 vehicles and 64 guns.

The outfit, now in the Apennnine Mountains before the Po Valley, has been in the line with the Fifth Army about 300 days since it was indoctrinated in battle near Fondi, Italy, last spring.

In one of its first actions, the 752nd helped seal off a German pocket in which 600 Germans were taken prisoners. Soon afterward, the tankers entered Rome with some of the first Allied troops to reach the capital.

Operating well in advance of the infantry, the 752nd attacked a heavily fortified hill north of Firenzuola at 8 o'clock one morning. Three hours later the last German gun position on the summit had been wiped out. The outfit held the hilltop for four hours, until the infantry caught up.

The 752nd was activated at Fort Knox, Kentucky, and trained at Fort Lewis, Washington, and Camp Foung, California. Further training was received in England.

Blood Donors

Another group from Campbill visited the blood bank Tuesday. They were Madge Robbin, Freda Bargas, Leona Sells, Bob Ress, G. Robles, S. Greshem, G. Jeffers, Fred Welch, Merrill Fammatre, J. D. Clemens, Elizabeth Myer, G. Mallen, C. N. Cleaver, R. Reynolds and Carl Reynolds.

These lists do not always show the entire representatives from this locality, as some donors go with a group from their place of employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Robinson are spending a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Robinson.

Dr. Poytress Is Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Luncheon

A most interesting and educational discourse on the coming San Francisco conference was delivered by Dr. William Poytress of the San Jose State college at Tuesdays Kiwanis meeting.

Dr. Poytress emphasized the necessity of hard work and intelligent thinking on the part of everyone to win a lasting and just peace. There are many problems to be discussed and acted upon, and upon their settlement depends the future stability of the world. The speaker attached a great deal of importance to the San Francisco meeting. He also briefly commented on the recent Russian meeting as well as the Dumbarton Oaks conferecne.

Visitors were Joseph McKinnon, Calvin Bohnett, J. Plumb, Frank Abernathy, M. Bookwalder, Earl King, Rev. Mark Rifenbark and John Ban, the latter home on furlough after serving in the European area with General Patton's forces.

Next week the Campbell High school orchestra under the direction of Frank Triena will give a program and the chairman will be Joe Gomes.

PAN-AMERICAN DAY

Pan-American Day—April 14—has taken on an added significance in the light of the approaching United Nations Conference in San Francsico.

The recent Chapultepec agreement whereby the nations of the Western Hemisphere (now including Argentina) agree to act together against any aggression on these two continents, does not run counter to the aims of worldwide cooperation. On the contrary, it has set up a model of international agreement wherein all nations, large and small, are accorded the same rights and considerations. It is a model, incidentally, which might well be followed to a greater degree in the United Nations Organization.

When this day was first set aside by former President Hoover in 1930, its purpose was then, as now, to foster better understanding and closer cooperation between the peoples of North and South America. This purpose has been attained to a substantial degree.

Pan-Americanism contributed in no small way to the splendid manner in which our southern neighbors are aiding us in opposing the Axis. Now, even Argentina has come back into the fold, thus re-establishing complete hemispheric solidarity.

On this 15th anniversary of Pan-American Day the 21 Republics can look back on encouraging progress and can look forward to greater achievements in their political, cultural and economic relations.

SHADOWS OVER SAN FRANCISCO

The world is praying that out of the United Nations Conference in San Francisco will come the basis for a lasting peace.

Recent developments in the war have added to the necessity for a permanent peace if civilization is to survive. One of these developments is the new British super-super bomb known as the "town-buster." it weighs eleven tons. The destructive force of these bombs, which are as tall as a two-story building, can hardly be imagined.

The other development is the new fire bomb American planes have used on Toyko, Nagoya and Osaka. This weapon sprays a flaming gasoline over a wide area in a jelly form which causes it to stick to building and other objects. Photographs taken by our reconnaissance planes indicate its deadly effectiveness. There is no doubt that it would wreak havoc even in cities with buildings of modern construction.

If we can use these weapons against the aggressors there is nothing to stop future aggressors from developing similar weapons to use against peace loving nations.

So the "town-buster" and the new fire bomb take their places along with the robot bomb as a threat to the civilized world. If Hitler and Hirohito had had these instruments of death at their command and developed to the degree that they will be in another generation, it is not unlikely that the Axis could have succeeded in its conquest for world domination.

So, when the representatives of the nations gather in San Francisco, they will meet in the shadow of these deadly weapons. All must work together for peace. The price of failure would be . . . . . .

They dare not fail!

MACARTHUR "TOPS"

We are glad to see that General MacArthur was named as the supreme commander of American Army forces in the Pacific.

His excellent strategy in leading American forces back to Bataan makes him deserving of this assignment. This action of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has removed all fears of the General and his admirers that he was to play only a secondary role in the final drive on Tokyo.

FASTEST PLANE

Withonut revealing the actual rate of speed, the Army has announced that the Lockheed P-80 which is driven by a new jet aircraft engine, can travel faster than any other plane. The new engine has only 10 per cent of the number of moving and removable parts of the gasoline powered engine and can be taken out and put back in minutes rather than in hours or days. The cabin of the P-80 is pressurized. This feature, together with the warm air flowing from the jet engine, enables the pilot to dispense with heavy clothing even when flying through the substratosphere, and eliminates the need for an oxygen mask. The jet engine is installed between the cock pit and the tail and has tremendous power in comparison to its weight. This greatly adds to the maneuverability of the plane.

AUDIT FEDERAL CORPORATIONS!

The average man hurrying home for dinner isn't disturbed much by the thought of a 300 billion dollar national debt—though he may have an uneasy feeling he should be. The idea is just too colossal; and what, he wonders, could he do about the matter anyway?

Congress itself, after a three-year, unavailing fight against the unprecedented methods of high finance of the several score government corporations, voted the latest debt limit with resignation. Even as the vote was tallied, the appropriation demands increased. The CCC and the RFC requested an additional $1,800,000,000 for food subsidies alone, though the National Grange, speaking for the farmers, termed their subsidy program "unsound and degrading."

The U. S. Treasury in its December bulletin reported the government had put approximately 37 billion dollars into federal corporations and credit agencies —whose net deficit on that date stood at more than 14 billions! The operations of such corporations, free from Congressional scrutiny, have been challenged by the taxpayer organizations of 36 states.

Glimmering on the muddled, murky scene, one ray of hope appears in the move to require U. S.-owned corporations to make their budget requests through Congress, in the regular manner prescribed by the Constitution and followed for all department appropriations. Further, under the Byrd-Butler Bill (SB 469), annual audits and reports would be required and made public.

The average man (who, if the National debt were to be paid off in his lifetime, could not possibly get his share of the money together), doesn't fancy in the least the idea of billions in taxpayers' dollars being expended without Congressional accounting.

A private corporation which refused an accounting to its stockholders, however few, would lose its franchise to do business. Surely a political corporation should not be less accountable, for an entire Nation of stockholders are involved—and so deeply that the obligation at best will extend into generations far beyond our time.

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD'S newest juvenile star—all hands seem to agree on that—is a 12-year-old girl who can say more with a flash of her wondrous eyes than most veteran actors can put across with a full page of dialog. Those eyes, deep set pools of blue that probe right into your heart, are the first thing you notice about Elizabeth Taylor. The second is her indomitable will.

The two form an unbeatable combination. Elizabeth is a quiet, beautiful child who has "willed" her way to Hollywood success.

Elizabeth Taylor

With any less determination she never would have won her opportunity to portray Velvet, the little heroine of "National Velvet." It is her outstanding performance in this picture that has lifted her to the stellar heights.

Since she first set foot on the MGM lot almost two years ago Elizabeth's heart has been set on playing Velvet. The studio's had the script since May, 1937, waiting for the right girl. Hundreds had been tested and many announced, but with no success. When Elizabeth approached Producer Pandro S. Berman she was told, "I'm sorry, honey, but I'm afraid you're not tall enough. Besides, Velvet has to ride a horse over a very difficult steeplechase course."

Spirit That Wins

"I can learn to do that," promptly declared the little girl. "And I can grow, too!"

In the next three months she did. To the amazement even of her family doctor she grew three inches.

This is explained by the fact that she suddenly developed an enormous appetite, after being a finicky eater for years, and added two hours to her sleeping each night. It was all her own idea, and she stuck to it.

Elizabeth already knew and loved horses. She had learned to ride at the age of four while living in England. Now, during the three months she trained daily on jumps until she was clearing five foot hurdles with ease and grace.

When she confronted Berman again he, too, was amazed at her growth. He called Clarence Brown, and they watched her ride and jump and marveled some more. A technicolor test was made, and Velvet had been found.

Elizabeth was born in London, the daughter of Francis Taylor, art dealer, and the former Sara Southern, who played the little crippled girl in Channing Pollock's "The Fool" on the New York stage.

Elizabeth attended school at Byron house in London. She was seven when war clouds began to darken Europe and her father moved his family to America. They have since made their home in Beverly Hills.

Two years ago when her father was on duty as an air raid warden, Sam Marx, a Metro producer, was moaning to a fellow warden about not finding a child for "Lassie, Come Home," with Roddy McDowall. The man said, "Taylor, here, has a young daughter that would be good for that part." Sam said to Taylor, "Bring her over to my office tomorrow, will you?" Taylor did, and Elizabeth got the part.

On Her Way

After the Lassie picture she appeared with Roddy again in "White Cliffs of Dover," then was loaned to Twentieth for "Jane Eyre," as Jane's ill-fated school chum. Her death scenes marked the first real proof of her acting talent. Following this she achieved her goal of the title role in "National Velvet," in which she teams with Mickey Rooney.

Her next assignment was awaiting her, and she's now nearly finished "Hold High the Torch." It is a part to delight any child and particularly Elizabeth. In the cast with her are her old friend, Lassie, the collie dog star, and a collection of wild life, that includes a black bear, coyote, beaver, silver fox, squirrels, chipmunks, porcupines and even skunks. The set is a little girl's paradise in which Elizabeth revels.

Her mother phoned me the other day and said, "Hedda, Elizabeth is just dying to bring over her pet chipmunk to introduce him to your pet dog, Wolfie." Well, since I love Wolfie as she does her chip, I had to say: "Wait until you can get her out of the house without an animal—then Wolfie will love to see her, and so will I."

With or without animals, Elizabeth will creep straight into your heart, and let me predict now, no amount of praise will ever spoil her.

* * *

And Now Comes the Dawn

Here's postwar planning that'll set Hollywood on its heels. An independent company is being formed by Leo McCarey, Frank Capra, Sam Wood, David Butler, George Stevens (when out of uniform), and Gregory La Cava. That's not bad. Bing Crosby's already tied in it for one picture a year. Only way actors and directors can have any money left is by an independent deal, it seems. Warners were smart in giving Bette Davis one picture a year to produce.

Grammar P.-T. A. Installs Officers

The Campbell Grammar School P.-T. A. unit met in the school auditorium recently for the installation of new officers.

Mrs. Walter Williams, retiring president conducted the business meeting which opened with the pledge of allegiance, and the singing of "America." Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. C. P. Klassen, in the absence of the secretary Mrs. F. B. Fossum. Reports of the officers and committee chairmen's activities for the past year were presented. Mrs. Williams gave the president's report and reported on the sixth district meeting she recently attended.

Bersano, membership; Mrs. William Abildgaard, Mrs. Leland Jones, and Mrs. S. R. Lee, refreshment; Mrs. R. E. Schaefle, study group.

Mrs. D. W. Ribble, chairman of the day, spoke on the subject, "Linking the School With Life." Mrs. Ribble, a teacher herself, interviewed various teachers of the school, and reported on the many ways they are helping to prepare children for later life. Greatly stressed by the teachers were citizenship, responsibility, sportsmanship, respecting the rights of others, cooperation, and health inspection.

Mrs. Rex Fuller presented a lovely gift to Mrs. Williams on behalf of the unit.

A public school program was announced by Miss Dorothy Merriman, the exact date of the program to be given later.

Room count award was won by Mrs. Frances Swane's class. The unit adjourned to the cafeteria for refreshments, served by second and third grade hostesses.

Shanks Move To Saratoga

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Shank and their daughter, Mrs. Mary Poor and children, are now established in the home at Rt. 1, Box 250B, Saratoga which they purchased recently, after selling their property on Latimer avenue.

The Shanks have made their home in Campbell for a long time, their children graduating from the local schools.

Mrs. Shank had been chairman of the Campbell branch of the San Jose chapter Red Cross and did a remarkable piece of work, devoting many, many hours attending conferences in San Jose and with local chairmen and her loss is keenly felt by the directors and workers of the Campbell branch.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" This is the Lesson-Sermon subject for Sunday, April 15, with the Golden Text taken from Jeremiah: "Heal me, O Lord, and I shall be healed; save me, and I shall be saved; for thou are my praise," (17:14).

One verse in the sermon is from the 119th Psalm: "Trouble and anguish have taken hold on me: yet thy commandments are my delights." A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook will be included in the Lesson-Sermon.

Maids who are hired and fired in "Life With Father"

"Life With Father" Sunday, April 15

"Life With Father," destined to go on forever according to some critics, now in its fourth return season at the Geary Theatre is delighting audiences as much as ever, Alexander Fried of the San Francisco Examiner saying, "The audience . . . laughed as joyously . . . at the fatherly tantrums, the patent medicine distaster, the servant problem, the female arithmetic and the crisis of Father's baptism—as if the comedy of the Family Day were brand new."

Carl Benton Reid and Betty Linley in the leading roles are said to top their predecessors, while the others of the star-Broadway cast are excellent.

Rise Stevens Date Changed

Rise Stevens, metropolitan opera star, whose date for the San Jose Concert Series was scheduled for April 16, will not sing until Sunday evening, May 6. A change in all of Miss Stevens' dates west of Chicago is necessitated due to the Metropolitan Opera's extending its season into Chicago for three weeks. Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

"SHOW GIRLS," said the late Flo Ziegfeld, "are a gift from heaven." But Bill Perlberg, Twentieth Century's new beauty impresario, thinks a little grooming on earth can do wonders. He believes in gilding the lily.

And with this in mind, he's put 14 showgirls under long term contract — and given them the tag Diamond Horseshoe Girls because they make their bow as a group in "Diamond Horseshoe," "Legs" Grable's new starring picture.

Bill Perlberg

The way beauty salesmen work has fascinated the world ever since the day Paris slipped Helen of Troy a golden apple. The girl that is one man's dish is a pain in the neck to the fellow in the next orchestra seat: so the impresario has to think fast to pick 'em to suit every taste and yet get a group that blends together. Most notable successes in this line have been Charles Cochrane of London, and the late Ziegfeld of Broadway. You can't omit Earl Carroll's garden, or George White's girls, Billy Rose's six footers, known as the Big Bruisers, or Sam Goldwyn's girls.

Sure Fire

Musicals make an ideal setting for beauty, as every producer knows. And as Producer Bill Perlberg intends to make a goodly list of technicolor super-dupers during the coming two years, he sent out scouts to fine-comb the United States of America for the most dazzling girls to be had. The 14 Diamond Horseshoe Girls came from New York City, Syracuse, and Port Jefferson; from Springfield, Mass., and Minneapolis, Minn.; from Portland, Ore.; Tulsa, Okla.; Beverly Hills, and Manhattan Beach.

When Perlberg began adding up the personality list of his 14, he got some surprises. He found he had a millionairess on his hands; a fourth generation movie family provided another; two had been welders in war plants; one had been a saleswoman for Standard Oil, taking the job to release a man to the army. Greatest shock of all was when his assistants told him he had looked over the entire group from "Cover Girl" and selected but one—blonde Carol Andrews.

Barbara Slater, of New York, lives at Town House while working—takes her millions as she does her glass of orange juice. Has what Noel Coward calls "the perfect figgah!" She's been given the typical Junior leaguer's European education. Her father is a toothpaste king, and her mother was on Broadway as June Keith.

There's Beauty and Beauty

When you talk to Perlberg about beauty, he tells you it must have "impact." "Pretty girls are a dime a dozen, Hedda," he says, "especially in Hollywood. But very few have impact—it's a combination of beauty, personality and that intangible something we call magnetism for lack of a better word."

Ellen Hall is a delicate brunette. I remember her mother, Ella Hall, of old silent films, and Arthur Johnson, her father. Some call him the Gary Cooper of his day.

Another girl was a mail clerk on Twentieth Century's lot. Bill looked up one morning and there stood a goddess with a batch of mail in her hand. Bill hustled her over to the test stage. When the rushes were run, he had another Diamond Horseshoe Girl — Mary Jane Shores, daughter of Writer Lynn Shores.

Green-eyed Cathy Downs' father is a blueprint and pattern maker at Port Jefferson, L. I. She's east coast in manners, sings, dances and went in for a classical education.

Quite a few of the girls had a bout at modeling: Alice Eyland, Carol Andrews, Mary Meade and Betty Jane Graham.

Still They Come

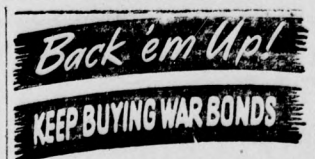

Jan Bryant was an usher at Graumann's Chinese, then completed nine months of back-breaking work as a welder. Ruth Lewis boasts she can take 150 words a minute. Yvonne Vautrot is tiny, dark and intriguing. Was a saleswoman for Standard Oil. Eve Miller, who reminds you of Barbara La Marr, also did a bit of welding.

In movies it takes less to become a star than it ever did on Broadway. Don't take my word for it—just look around you next time you see a picture and judge for yourself!

Annie, It's Mutual

Ann Sheridan phoned to say hello, and she's happy to be home. Her first picture, she thinks, will be "Danger Signal." What it's about she hasn't an idea. She's interested in getting meat on her chassis. She went from 126 to 114 pounds. . . . Metro has a new singing sensation, Marilyn Hansen. She turned down Nelson Eddy on the air to sing at Camp Roberts. . . . After much ballyhoo and threatening lawsuits Jennifer Jones does a picture a year for five years for Twentieth.

Fred Drew of the Drew Canning company who was taken to the hospital Tuesday afternoon in a quite serious condition had responded to treatment and was reported improved. He will probably be at the hospital for some time, but for the present no visitors are allowed.

Ensign Donald Martin is here from New York City for a weeks visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Tom Martin and family. Enroute to Campbell Don stopped over in Salt Lake City to see his brother Murray and reports he is doing right well for himself. Don returns to New York Sunday for reassignment.

A. C. Currie has been carrying a broken arm in a sling the result of a fall in his yard when he fell over a wheel barrow in the dark.

CALL UP THE RESERVES!

Standby Electric Power Wins Industrial Battles

HIGH up in an Oakland office building sits the P. G. and E. System Load Dispatcher. His role is that of a General directing operations from his Supreme Headquarters. He marshals an army of electric generating stations much as the military commander masses his divisions of men and armor.

On the front line are the 52 interconnected hydroelectric powerhouses of the system with a total capacity of 1,450,321 horsepower.

Held in reserve are 13 steam operated stations, big fellows most of them, ready to move into action at any time with additional electric forces totaling 853,384 horsepower capacity.

If storm, seasonal water shortage, or any other mischance puts one or more hydro stations temporarily out of commission or if demand at peak hours grows too heavy for the hydro plants to carry, the reserve steam plants are called up at the critical moment.

That's Standby, our insurance to Industry, to all our customers, that service everywhere shall be uninterrupted and adequate.

Standby, the reserves that frequently win the industrial fight against costly shutdowns, idle manpower and machinery.

Standby, the extra system capacity which has enabled this Company to meet every wartime demand for power. Isolated generating plants, lacking this protection, cannot equal this record.
